

Arthur Moulds Carrion

75TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

H. R. 4885

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

FEBRUARY 18, 1937

Mr. CARTWRIGHT introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Insular Affairs and ordered to be printed

A BILL

To enable the people of Puerto Rico to draft a constitution through a constitutional convention; to submit such constitution in referendum to the people of Puerto Rico; to provide for the establishment of independence if the people of Puerto Rico approve the constitution; and for other purposes.

Whereas, as a result of the treaty ending the Spanish-American War, a war undertaken in the name of liberty, the island of Puerto Rico, the island of Cuba, and the Philippine Archipelago came within the jurisdiction of the United States and under the authority of Congress;

Whereas, in assuming this responsibility, three duties devolved upon Congress: (1) To establish civil government, (2) to promote the welfare of the inhabitants, and (3) to take final action at the proper time as to the definite and permanent political status of these islands and their peoples;

Whereas these three duties have been discharged with regard to the island of Cuba and the Philippine Archipelago;

Whereas, in the discharge of the first of these duties with respect to Puerto Rico, Congress in 1900 and in 1917 established and developed forms of civil government by delegating certain powers to the people of Puerto Rico;

Whereas, in the discharge of the second of these duties with respect to Puerto Rico, Congress in 1900 established a limitation of five hundred acres on the control of lands by agricultural corporations in order to protect the welfare of the people of Puerto Rico against land monopoly;

Whereas, in the discharge of the second of these duties with respect to Puerto Rico, Congress has from time to time enacted legislation and made appropriations intended to promote the welfare of Puerto Rico;

Whereas, in spite of this discharge of its first two duties by Congress with respect to Puerto Rico, a situation has nevertheless developed in Puerto Rico, and grows increasingly serious, whereby it has become evident that the relationship established between the Government of the United States and the people of Puerto Rico by the Treaty of Paris is not beneficial or satisfactory either to the people of Puerto Rico or to the people of the United States;

Whereas the former suffer from a system, based largely on the violation of the congressional enactment of 1900 in restraint of land monopoly, in which absentee ownership continuously saps the economic strength of the island;

Whereas the people of Puerto Rico, not having an executive control in the government of the island, have lacked the power to check developing economic evils;

Whereas, on the other hand, taxpayers over the whole United States are called upon to mitigate the results of this system, which is in no way beneficial to them, by frequent appropriation of funds from the Federal Treasury;

Whereas this obviously gives rise to an injustice to the people of the United States and to the people of Puerto Rico;

Whereas to correct this injustice Congress is now called upon to discharge its third duty with respect to Puerto Rico, as it has already discharged it with respect to other territory that came under the jurisdiction of the United States as a result of the Treaty of Paris—that is, to determine the final and permanent political status of the island and its people in a manner that shall be mutually beneficial to the island and to the Nation;

Whereas Congress has full authority under the Constitution and the laws to make such determination, with Presidential approval, and without intervention by the people of Puerto Rico; and

Whereas, in honoring the principle of democracy upon which the people of the United States have reared their national existence, it is deemed fair that the people of Puerto Rico shall have nevertheless a voice and a vote in determining under what conditions their whole future life is to be established:
Therefore

- 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
- 2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,
- 3 That it is hereby declared to be the policy of Congress to grant
- 4 independence to the people of Puerto Rico under a consti-
- 5 tution meriting their approval, in the framing and approval

1 of which the Government of the United States shall intervene 2 only for the protection of the legitimate rights of the United 3 States in the premises.

4 It is hereby likewise declared to be the policy of Con-5 gress that if the people of Puerto Rico do not desire their 6 independence they may in the manner provided in section 7 4 of this Act express their will in this respect.

8 It is furthermore declared to be the policy of Congress
9 to maintain with the people of Puerto Rico, if they choose 10 independence, a mutually fair and beneficial commercial 11 relationship, evolved through the instrumentalities provided 12 for in sections 5 and 12 of this Act.

13 CONVENTION TO FRAME CONSTITUTION FOR PUERTO RICO

14 SEC. 2. An election shall be held in Puerto Rico on 15 the second Tuesday of July 1938 to elect fifty-one dele-
16 gates at large to a constitutional convention. Within sixty 17 days thereafter the Governor of Puerto Rico shall proclaim 18 the results of such election and shall fix a date, not later
19 than October 1, 1938, upon which the convention shall meet
20 in the Capitol Building at San Juan to formulate and draft 21 a constitution for the government of the Republic of Puerto 22 Rico, which shall exercise jurisdiction over all the territory
23 in the West Indies ceded to the United States by article 24 II of the Treaty of Peace concluded between the United 25 States and Spain on the 10th day of December 1898. The 1 laws relating to qualifications of voters and safeguarding of 2 elections which governed the election of November 3, 1936,

3 shall apply to this election, with such modifications and addi-4 tions as the President may by order prescribe in order to 5 carry out the purpose of securing a true expression of the 6 choice of the people of Puerto Rico.

7 SUBMISSION OF CONSTITUTION TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE 8 UNITED STATES

9 SEC. 3. (a) Within three months after the first meet-
10 ing of the constitutional convention, the constitution drafted 11 and approved by such convention shall be submitted to the 12 Governor of Puerto Rico, who shall in turn submit it to the 13 President of the United States. If he approves the consti-
14 tution, he shall so certify to the Governor of Puerto Rico, 15 who shall so advise the constitutional convention.

16 (b) If the President disapproves the constitution, he 17 shall so advise the Governor of Puerto Rico, submitting his 18 objections thereto and alternative provisions. The Governor 19 shall in turn submit such message to the constitutional con-
20 vention for further action by it pursuant to the procedure
21 herein provided until the President and the constitutional 22 convention are in agreement. Failure of the President to 23 advise the Governor of his approval within sixty days after 24 submission of the constitution by the constitutional conven-
25 tion to the Governor shall be deemed equivalent to a certifi-

1 cation of approval by the President. Failure of the 2 constitutional convention to return the constitution to the 3 Governor within sixty days after receipt of a message from 4 the President submitting his objections and alternative pro-5 visions shall be deemed equivalent to an approval by the 6 convention of such alternative provisions and the draft with 7 said provisions shall be submitted by the Governor of Puerto 8 Rico as approved by the convention to the President for 9 his certification.

10 SUBMISSION OF CONSTITUTION TO THE PEOPLE OF 11 PUERTO RICO

12 SEC. 4. Not less than two nor more than four months 13 after the President of the United States has certified his 14 approval of the constitution, on a date to be fixed by the 15 President, the constitution shall be submitted to the people 16 of Puerto Rico for ratification or rejection at an election at 17 which the qualified voters of Puerto Rico shall have an 18 opportunity to vote directly for or against such constitution.
 19 The laws relating to qualifications of voters and safeguarding 20 of elections which governed the election of November 3, 21 1936, shall apply to this election, with such modifications and 22 additions as the President may by order prescribe in order 23 to carry out the purpose of securing a true expression of the 24 choice of the people of Puerto Rico. Within thirty days
 25 after the election the Governor of Puerto Rico shall certify

1 the result to the President of the United States, together with 2 a statement of the votes cast and a copy of the constitution
 3 voted upon, and shall proclaim such result. If a majority 4 of the votes cast shall be against the constitution, then the 5 constitutional convention shall frame a new constitution, 6 which shall be submitted to the Governor for transmission to 7 the President within six months after certification of the result 8 of the election, and the procedure provided in section 3 and 9 in this section shall be followed until a constitution framed 10 in accordance with this title receives the favorable vote of a 11 majority of the votes cast at an election: Provided, however,
 12 That if in the third election held pursuant to this provision 13 a majority of the votes cast are against the constitution sub-14 mitted, the operation of this Act shall thereupon terminate.

15 NEGOTIATION OF A PROPOSED COMMERCIAL AGREEMENT
 16 BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND PUERTO RICO

17 SEC. 5. (a) If a majority of the votes cast at an elec-
 18 tion held pursuant to section 4 shall be for the constitution 19 submitted, a commission of ten members, five designated 20 by the constitutional convention and five by the President
 21 of the United States, shall meet in the city of Washington 22 within sixty days after the certification of the election in 23 order to formulate and draft a proposed commercial agree-
 24 ment between the United States and the independent 25 Republic of Puerto Rico, as hereinafter provided.

1 (b) A draft of such proposed agreement, concurred in 2 by both a majority of the commissioners designated by the 3 President of the United States and a majority of the com-4 missioners designated by the constitutional convention, shall 5 be certified by the Commission to the President and to the 6 constitutional convention. If the President approves the 7 draft he shall so certify to the Governor of Puerto Rico,
 8 who shall so advise the constitutional convention. There-
 9 upon, if the constitutional convention approves the draft it
 10 shall so advise the Governor of Puerto Rico, who in turn 11 shall so advise the President.

12 (c) If the President disapproves the draft, he shall so
 13 advise the Governor of Puerto Rico submitting his objections 14 thereto and alternative provisions. The Governor shall in 15 turn submit such message to the constitutional convention
 16 for further action by it pursuant to the procedure herein 17 provided. If the constitutional convention disapproves the 18 draft in the form approved by the President, or the alterna-19 tive provisions submitted by him, it shall so advise the 20 Governor of Puerto Rico, stating its objections and sub-21 mitting alternative provisions of its own. The Governor shall 22 in turn submit such message to the President for further 23 action pursuant to the procedure herein provided. Such 24 procedure shall be followed until the President and the con-25 stitutional convention are in agreement. Failure of the 1 President to advise the Governor of his approval or dis-

 2 approval of a draft within sixty days after its certification 3 by the commission or of the alternative provisions of the 4 constitutional convention within sixty days after its sub-
 5 mission by the constitutional convention to the Governor, 6 as the case may be, shall be deemed equivalent to a certifica-7 tion of approval by the President. If, within sixty days after 8 receipt from the Governor of a draft approved by the Presi-
 9 dent or of alternative provisions submitted by him, the con-10 stitutional convention fails to advise the Governor of its 11 approval or disapproval, the draft in the form approved by 12 the President or such alternative provisions, as the case
 13 may be, shall be deemed approved by both the President 14 and the convention.

15 ELECTION OF GOVERNMENT OF PUERTO RICO AND INDE-
 16 PENDENCE OF PUERTO RICO

17 SEC. 6. Within thirty days after such approval, the 18 Governor shall issue a proclamation for the election of officers 19 of the independent Government of Puerto Rico provided for 20 in the constitution approved by the people of Puerto Rico 21 pursuant to section 4. The qualifications for voting and 22 the safeguards for such election shall be as provided in 23 such constitution, but no citizen who has filed a declaration 24 of intention to retain his American citizenship pursuant to 25 section 7, or for whom the period prescribed by such sec-

1 tion within which to file his declaration has not expired, shall 2 be entitled to vote in such election. The election shall 3 take place not earlier than three months and not later than 4 six months after the proclamation of the Governor, on a 5 date fixed in such proclamation. Within thirty days after 6 such election the Governor of Puerto Rico shall certify the 7 result of the election to the President of the United States,
 8 who shall thereupon issue a proclamation announcing the re-
 9 sult of the election, withdrawing and surrendering all right 10 of possession, supervision, jurisdiction, control, or sover-11 eignty then existing and exercised by the United States in 12 and over the territory and people of Puerto Rico, including 13 all military and other reservations of the Government of 14 the United States in Puerto Rico and, on behalf of the 15 United States, recognizing the independence of Puerto Rico
 16 as a separate and self-governing nation and acknowledging 17 the authority and control over the same of the government 18 instituted by the people thereof, under the constitution then 19 in force. Upon the issuance of such proclamation by the 20 President the existing government of Puerto Rico shall 21 terminate and the new government shall enter upon its 22 rights, privileges, power, and duties as provided under the 23 constitution, which shall thereupon take effect. The present
 24 government of Puerto Rico shall provide for the orderly 25 transfer of the functions of government.

1 RIGHT TO RETAIN AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

2 SEC. 7. (a) Every citizen residing in Puerto Rico on the 3 date of the election approving the constitution pursuant to 4 section 4 and every citizen whose citizenship is based upon 5 legislation directed exclusively to Puerto Rico may retain 6 his American citizenship upon compliance with the provisions 7 of this section.

8 (b) Any such citizen residing in Puerto Rico who de-9 sires to remain an American citizen shall file with the United

 15 court, one copy to be by it forwarded to the Secretary of 16 State of the United States, one copy to be by it transmitted
 17 to the Governor of Puerto Rico, and one copy to be retained 18 by the declarant.

19 (c) Any such citizen residing elsewhere in the United 20 States may similarly file such a declaration of intention with 21 any official authorized to administer oath in naturalization 22 proceedings; and any such citizen residing outside the United 23 States, with a diplomatic or consular official of the United 24 States. Such official shall thereupon forward such declara-25 tion to the United States District Court for the District of

1 Puerto Rico, under rules and regulations to be prescribed
2 by said court.

3 (d) Such declaration must be filed within six months
4 after the date of the election approving the constitution:
5 Provided, however, That such declaration need not be 6 filed by a minor child or person under legal disability before 7 six months after attaining majority, or after removal of 8 disability, as the case may be. Appropriate provision shall 9 be made for the filing of declaration which, under the pro-10 visions of this subsection, may not be required until after 11 the date of the proclamation of independence.

12 (e) Any citizen referred to in subsection (a) who 13 fails to file such a declaration of intention within the ap-14 plicable period specified in this section shall be deemed a 15 citizen of Puerto Rico, upon the proclamation of indepen-
16 dence of Puerto Rico or upon the expiration of the applicable
17 period, whichever happens later. Until such time, however, 18 all such citizens shall retain their American citizenship.
19 After such time, no such citizen shall regain American citi-
20 zenship except under the provisions of the naturalization 21 law.

22 (f) As used in this section the term "United States"
23 includes Puerto Rico, all other territories and possessions of 24 the United States, the Commonwealth of the Philippine 25 Islands, and the Canal Zone.

1 NOTIFICATION TO FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS

2 SEC. 8. Upon the proclamation and recognition of the 6 to recognize the independence of Puerto Rico.

7 TRANSFER OF PROPERTY AND RIGHTS TO REPUBLIC OF 8 PUERTO RICO

9 SEC. 9. All the property and rights which may have 10 been acquired in Puerto Rico by the United States under 11 the treaty mentioned in section 2 of this Act, except such 12 land or any other property as has heretofore been designated 13 by the President of the United States for military and other 14 reservations of the Government of the United States and 15 except such land or other property or rights or interests 16 thereon as may have been sold or otherwise disposed of 17 in accordance with law are hereby granted to the govern-18 ment of the Republic of Puerto Rico effective upon the 19 proclamation of independence of Puerto Rico.

20 PROCESSING TAXES

21 SEC. 10. The United States will pay to the government
22 of the Republic of Puerto Rico the aggregate sum of all

16 RICO

17 SEC. 12. Trade relations as existing between Puerto 18 Rico and the remainder of the United States immediately

21 the United States and the Republic of Puerto Rico regu-
22 lating such relations shall have been concluded and ratified
23 by both countries: Provided, however, That if no commercial

25 there shall thereafter be levied on all articles imported from

1 Puerto Rico into the United States duties at the rate which
