Dear Friends:

I have just received the Polygraph and learned with much pleasure that you folks are being honored on Founders Day. I am sure that no one is entitled to the honor more and I am equally sure that everyone who knows of your work there will agree with me completely. I only wish that I could be there for the occasion but I am afraid that will be impossible.

The influence you have had on the lives of hundreds of young people is a monument that can never be destroyed. They are better for it. And as they are better so will their children and their children's children be better. It is very apparent that your unselfish purpose has been the enrichment of the lives of others. You have accomplished and are accomplishing that purpose. You have earned the love and respect of all who know you. You must be very happy and your friends are very happy for you.

Very cordially yours,
Eustace Blakey.
